

We are here for you!
Your Infinex-Team.

Dear customers and business partners,

the last few days and weeks have shown how closely we humans are inter-connected. No matter on which continent and in which country we are, COVID 19 is always our common theme and the news is breaking every hour. Cooperation and solidarity becomes more important again, especially the way we meet each other, in order to protect each other. This results in two fundamental principles that are of special concern to us:

The health of our employees, customers and business partners.

At the same time, we strive to continue to be available for you in the coming days and weeks ensuring the usual quality.

Rest assured that we are monitoring the situation very carefully. Of course, we will make sure to comply with all recommendations of the authorities and are even taking further protective measures.

We will do our best to ensure that all business processes are as reliable as possible for you. Also our employees are available for you just as usual.

We firmly believe that we will master this difficult time together. Let us stick together and above all: take care for each other!
